The Battle of Edgehill, 23rd October 1642

Join Martin Russell, Vice President of Shipston and District Local History Society, as he takes us on a tour of the Edgehill Battlefield.

The Battle of Edgehill, which took place on 23 October 1642, was the first pitched battle of the English Civil War and took place in fields between the villages of Kineton and Radway between the Royalists, gathered on the Edge Hill escarpment, against Essex’s parliamentary forces gathered in the fields below.

The morning will start at The Castle Pub, which enjoys spectacular views of the battlefield. Assisted by maps and drawings, Martin will bring the battlefield to life and plot the course of the battle for us as we explore some of the key areas in the battle, including Red Lane, Kineton and Radway. The outing includes a mix of driving and walking.

After finishing at The Castle Pub, attendees are encouraged to stay for lunch.
